Here is what Evelyn Cullen from MediaContact.ie has to say about Podcasting 101:

“I attended a half-day beginners podcasting course by Athena Media in the Digital Exchange, Dublin 8. I went there with very little knowledge about podcasts, what they are, who uses them and how to create one. After a great introduction to the world of podcasting, we learned, at the very capable hands of Joe Conway and Helen Shaw, how to go about recording, editing and encoding a podcast. We also learned how to use the necessary equipment and got practical recommendations of what to buy and where. We got a brilliant training manual which will teach you all you need to know about podcasting and it included a free copy of Audacity, one of the software options you need in order to record and release your podcast. So I came away armed with everything I needed to start podcasting, and I'm delighted to say that I now know what an RSS feed is.”
